Commander's Message

We were fortunate to have a beautiful summer. We had a number of cruises; some long weekend cruises at Easter, Victoria Day and Labour Day and two extended cruises during July and August. We also participated in the Great Canadian Shoreline Clean-up and got together for a picnic at Rocky Point Park on the same day.

Did you know that the reason we are able to enjoy these fun and entertaining events is because of the volunteers. I would like to express my appreciation of the people in the squadron that give a great deal of their time organizing and coordinating these events. There are other squadron members that participate in our scheduled events and lend a hand whenever one is needed. Also, the student cruises only happen because the captains and their crews are willing to help students learn the secrets of navigation. They volunteer not just their time but their resources to this worthwhile event. These are just a few examples of why our squadron is thriving when others are not.

So thank you all for your dedication and commitment to our squadron. 🇨🇦

Aloha,

Jeanette Gordon,
Commander

A Tribute to Carlos Enrique Fuenzalida

(Charlie Echo Foxtrot as he was lovingly called.)
1944 - 2014

I regret to inform you that on, Sept. 19 at approximately 10:30 a.m. I lost my dearest friend and companion Carlos Fuenzalida. Carlos was born in Valpraiso, Chile and immigrated to Canada in the 1970s. He was retired and devoted his time to Canadian Power and Sail Squadrons extensively having served for 14 years with the organization. He was currently the National IT Chair, and the Web Based System Support at Pacific Mainland District. Carlos served as a boating

Navigating in Fog

“Lights on, sound your horn, slow down, and post a lookout.”

Fog poses a double threat to watercraft. By reducing visibility to as little as zero, it can cause boaters to lose their direction and wander off course into hazardous waters or commercial shipping lanes. The possibility of colliding with another boat is a real and serious danger in such conditions. Fog also distorts sound, which travels faster through moist air than it does through dry air, making it easy to become disoriented and underestimate speed and distance. Mariners should treat fog with caution and be aware that visibility can change suddenly when approaching a fog bank. “If you can’t see, don’t go” is the best advice of all; however, even experienced boaters may be caught unaware by a sudden change in the weather.

Boaters must be on full alert when navigating in fog. At the same time, they should be prepared to have their senses play tricks on them, as both sight and sound are affected by the presence of fog. It is very common, when staring out into shifting clouds, to see vague shapes--known as “fog gremlins”--that appear to be ships, islands, or lighthouses. Although it is safest to stay on shore when fog is present or expected, mariners who are already on the water and find themselves in foggy conditions should follow these safety tips:

- Return to port, if possible.
- Slow down.
- Put on your fog lights and use radar reflectors if there is any possibility of shipping traffic.
- Use a horn or whistle to signal your presence.
- Don’t distract yourself with music and conversation; stay alert for clues of land, buoys, or other boats.
- Make sure that all aboard are wearing a personal flotation device (PFD).
- Transmit your location and check for other traffic on your VHF radio.

- Use a global positioning system (GPS), if you have one, and other means (e.g., compass, charts) to keep track of your speed, time, direction, and location.
- Have dinghy lowered and ready to use if necessary.

Rule 35

International Collision Regulations—Signals in Restricted Visibility

(From Rule 35 – apply to both International and Inland waters) Signal intervals are not more than 2 minutes unless otherwise noted

–	Power-driven making way
– –	Power-driven underway but stopped, making no way
– – –	Vessel not under command, vessel restricted in ability to maneuver, vessel constrained by draft, sailing vessel, vessel engaged in fishing, or vessel engaged in towing or pushing
– – – –	Vessel being towed or last vessel of tow, if manned
Rapid ringing of bell for 5 seconds every minute	Anchored
• • •	Anchored (optional signal)
Rapid ringing of bell for 5 seconds followed by sounding of gong every minute	Anchored over 100 meters
Three strokes of bell immediately before and after an “Anchored” bell signal	Aground
••••	Pilot vessel engaged in pilotage duty

Note: Dash “–” is a 4 - 6 second or prolonged blast.
Dot “•” is a 1 second or short blast.

SOUTHERN NIGHTS

Cruise - Out To The Other Side

Or at least, that was the idea. While many would have like to have gone, only Lucky Day, Bull Durham, and Murrelet ventured out to the west side of Vancouver Island. Our original plan was to head out after the first week of the July cruise, and go to Bamfield. Fishing was the goal and the boys were geared up to go! At the end of the first week we were monitoring the weather and it was pretty iffy as to whether we should head out at all, but on July 4 we thought we'd try to at least make it to Sooke.

Fairly calm seas greeted us as we left Victoria harbour. The sun was out and we headed south towards Race Rocks. We booked Pedder Bay in case we needed to hole up along the way, but we knew we could make it so we cancelled. Race Rocks are the most southern point of Canada in the Juan de Fuca Straits and the view across to Washington State was just gorgeous!

We came into Sooke Inlet and saw the famous Whiffen Spit which protects the basin and is home to the Sooke Harbour House. Sooke Harbour is a bit of a lesson in navigational aids. All manner of navigational aids were used and it was easy to get turned around but we managed. We were surprised that with three marinas in the harbour, not a slip was to be found so we stayed at the Government dock tied up with a lot of the commercial fish boats. Murrelet was already anchored in the bay just north of us.

The weather started to deteriorate, but the fishermen tackled up and headed out anyways. There had to be at least a hundred fish boats out in the fishing grounds but not a lot of catching going on. There was a skippers meeting on July 5 and we collectively decided that while we could probably make it to Bamfield, our chances of getting back when we needed to could not be guaranteed so we decided against going any further north on this trip. The crews of Bull Durham and Lucky Day dug out their "going to town" clothes and went to the Sooke Harbour House for a memorable dinner. It's a lovely place and the dinner, as expected, was spectacular.

The Sooke Basin is a large wide...well...basin. It looks somewhat like a lake and the surrounding terrain was a low and rolling countryside. With the weather being as unpleasant as it was, we didn't venture into it as far as we might have. Eric and Lillian Lusk on Murrelet went the next day and reported that there were some nice anchorages further on, but next time for us.

With the slow fishing and the less than impressive weather we decided to head back to Pedder Bay that we'd given a pass to a few days before. The crew of Murrelet also had enough of the wet weather and decided to head to the Gulf Islands. Pedder Bay is right behind Race Rocks and as we cruised in, the sun came out, and the rain went north. Here too were hundreds of fishing boats, all plying the waters between Sooke and the Rocks. With the fishing being so slow, there were a lot of grumpy fishermen milling about the marina. The marina is at the very end of the small inlet and was really quite nice and much bigger than I had thought. There is a campground and most of the campers were out fishing....go figure! Pedder Bay is also famous as the location of the William Head Penitentiary which looks out over the straits.

We left there the next morning and headed up to the Gulf Islands and eventually landed at the new Mill Bay Marina. Its not so new anymore, but what a lovely surprise it was. The docks were gorgeous. Large concrete platforms with picnic tables and lots of room to sit out and enjoy the views of Pat Bay on the Saanich Peninsula and the coastal mountains behind it. There is a lovely bistro at the marina and a small mall right up the street with cute shops and a pub but more importantly, a Thrifty's!

The next day we made contact with Getaway who was leaving Sydney and we met them in a little anchorage on Tent Island. The weather by now had been just glorious and the sunsets from this little bay were just stunning. We ended up going in to Telegraph cove on Thetis Island and then headed to Pirates Cove where we met up with the crew from Caliente as well. We enjoyed our last few nights there before heading home. All in all a very pleasant week and some new locations checked out too!

Northern Lights Cruise

Aug 1 & 2—Nanaimo Yacht Basin

Nanaimo is called the Hub City for a reason. The lively “Waterfront Walkway” is full of shops, restaurants and provisions but its also a quick jump to the infamous Dinghy Dock Pub or, if you prefer, the beautiful coast trail that circles Newcastle Island Marine Park.

Aug 3 & 4—Comox Bay Marina

Welcome to Comox Nautical Days. Nautical Days

are held each year on BC Day long weekend to celebrate

Comox’s love of the sea. It features artisans, great food and lively entertainment for all ages on the beautiful marina waterfront. Weekend highlights include the Bullhead Derby, Canoe Jousting, Dragon Boat Races, Build, Bail & Sail, the Ceremony of the Flags, parade, food, crafts and fireworks.

Aug 5 & 6 April Point Marina, Quadra Island

April Point Marina is the ideal jumping off point for cruising the Discovery Islands and Desolation Sound. April Point Marina is located in the cove south of Gowlland Harbour in a quiet, secluded bay in the protected waters adjacent to the resort. While staying at April Point Marina, guests have the use of the facilities and services available at both the beautiful April Point Resort & Spa and Painter’s Lodge. A shuttle is available to take you over to the Painter’s side. Nautical history buffs may want to head over to Campbell River and check out Museum at Campbell River and the Maritime Heritage Centre; both highly recommended.

Aug 7 & 8 Rebecca Spit, Quadra Island

In 1864, in honor of a British trading schooner, the spit was named. A spit, or a sandspit, is a depositional landform that can be found off coasts all over the world. A spit may be considered a specialized form of a shoal. As spits grow, the water behind them is sheltered from wind and waves, and a salt marsh is likely to develop.

Thank you Cruise Master Stephen & Yvonne McCoach for treating the members to a Lobster Fest on the beach. See Galley Grits for the menu & recipes.

Aug 9 –11 Tenedos Bay, Desolation Sound

Tenedos Bay is a close favourite to Melanie Cove with it’s warm pristine waters, diving cliffs, and fresh water lake access. Caution must be exercised in setting anchor in this bay. It can reach depths over 300 feet in the central parts but there are many small coves and crannies shallow enough for small craft to find anchorage. The largest, most protected anchorage area is in the extreme northern end of the bay. Despite its partial exposure to westerly winds, the eastern most cove in Tenedos Bay is usually the busiest. Here a 5 min trail leads up to Unwin Lake and halfway it cuts through the woods to a stream where gentle rapids and deep pools provide an ideal secluded place to swim. When a westerly wind arises, it whistles through this area.

Aug 12-15 Melanie Cove, Desolation Sound

The newest entertainment

venue of the Pacific West Coast. 3rd Annual

Dinghy Concert off the back of MV Pres de Soleil drew an audience of approx. 150, complete with appies. The following week the PMPSS Dinghy Ballet wowed the anchorage executing near perfect group pirouettes.

Aug 16 & 17 Garden Bay, Pender Harbour.

Welcoming boaters since 1932 Garden Bay is a great spot to have fun and wrap up another great cruise. 🇨🇦

Pacific Mainland District Rendezvous Aug 22-24

This year's PMD rendezvous, hosted by Vancouver Power Squadron, was great fun, and we had over 20 boats, skippers, family, and friends attend the event. We were very fortunate to have had beautiful, sunny weather for the whole weekend, and the Telegraph Marina on Thetis Island was a wonderful facility. Owners Ron and Tara, and staff, made us feel welcome at their resort.

Commander Jeff Booth, aboard Main Attraction, hosted the welcome BBQ on Friday evening while District PRO Isabela Booth welcomed the arriving boaters at the registration tent. On Saturday there were lots of fun and activities, including model boat building for the kids (big and small), which led to a competitive sailing race. The winners - Jasper, Don, and Amelie - were interviewed, TV style, by NorVan Squadron members John Christie and Linda Aylesworth.

In the next event, participants were able to show off their skills at life-line tossing, ending with a final toss off between Past Commander Art Rendell and new-to-boating Christopher Hunt. Christopher just edged out the win.

For a bit of fun on the lighter side we had the great Canadian Cheese Head Game. Teams of four tossed cheetos onto their team captain's head, which was covered with shaving cream. Commander Jeff Booth's team won with 118 cheetos for the final tally.

The afternoon was filled with stiff competition in the challenging Bocce tournament, while other members filled out their ballots for the Best Dressed Boat Competition. Entrants included John Christie and Linda Aylesworth from Aerie with a "Noah's Water Park" theme; Jeff and Isabela Booth from Main Attraction had a "movie premiere" theme; Don White, Julie and Christopher Hunt from Acadia had a "Sea World" theme; And the winning boat was District Commander Shirley Shea of Miss Emilja, theme of "Blarney Stone".

The day ended with a fantastic potluck dinner, dessert provided by Commander Shirley O'Shea and awards were presented by Jeff & Isabela Booth.

Special thanks to Jeff & Isabela Booth, Julie & Christopher Hunt, and John Christie & Linda Aylesworth for all their help in making this a fun event for all.

Outgoing Cruise Master

Thank you Stephen (& Yvonne) McCoach (MV Lucky Day) for a wonderful season of cruising. It was swell! 🚩

Incoming Cruise Master?

MPSS is currently seeking a new Cruise Master, and up to 5 Cruise Directors for next years cruises. Each Cruise Director will be assigned one (or more if desired) cruises to organize under the guidance of the Cruise Master. The regularly scheduled cruises to choose from are:

- Easter Cruise
- May Long Weekend
- Canada Day Week
- August Cruise (2 weeks)
- September Long Weekend
- PMD Integrated Cruise Weekend (New)

The Cruise Master will assist the Cruise Directors as needed in planning all cruises including any cruise related social activities, but is not expected to attend each one.

The Cruise Directors are expected to attend their cruise(s) and facilitate any social activities during that cruise.

These positions qualify for merit marks. One merit mark is awarded for each year of volunteer service. Upon receiving 20 merit marks, you become a life member, and membership dues are free!

Lobster Fest!

Tonight's Special

Lobster Tails

with Garlic Tarragon Butter

Corn on the Cob

Linguine Alfredo

Dilled Potato Salad

Feta & Watermelon Salad

Green Salads

Assorted Savories & Sweets

Boiling is the most straightforward way to cook lobster tails. If the tails are frozen, you'll need to thaw them before you cook them. (You could cook them frozen in a pinch, but they won't be as tender). When the lobster tails are thawed, you should easily be able to touch the head of the lobster tail to the end of the tail flap. Bring 6 to 8 cups of salted water to boil in a large pan for approximately 4 lobster tails. Be generous with the salt, but don't add more than a couple tablespoons. It's customary to leave the shell on the lobster when boiling it. The shell will help impart flavor and make sure the meat of the tail doesn't fall apart while cooking. Drop the tail(s) in the boiling water and reduce to a simmer. Cook for about 1 minute per ounce of tail meat. For example, 10 oz. of tail meat needs to cook for 10 minutes. If you are cooking with 4 tails that each weigh 10 oz., don't cook the tails for 40 minutes; cook for 10 minutes! If you are cooking a lot of tails (4+), add a minute or two on top of the original cooking time. Serve with clarified butter and lemon.

Linguine Boursin Alfredo Sauce

Ingredients

- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion OR 2 tbsp finely chopped shallots
- 1 tbsp finely chopped garlic (2 medium cloves)
- 1 tsp olive oil
- 1 tsp butter
- 1 box Boursin Herb and Garlic Cheese (room temperature)
- 2 cups heavy (whipping) cream
- 1 cup grated Parmesan (can also use Grana Padano or Asiago... Parmesan is the creamiest, Asiago the grittiest)
- Pepper...(I don't add salt as there is so much in the cheeses already)

Directions

Heat the olive oil and butter together in a saucepan...add shallots and garlic and sauté on medium heat. Do not allow to brown, but cook until translucent about 5 mins. Deglaze with 1/4 cup white wine and let it cook down till all the alcohol is cooked off. Add the Boursin and cream and stir while they are melting together. Add the Parmesan cheese and stir till it is melted too. Season with salt & pepper to taste.

This is the basic sauce...use it over pasta or meats or veggies. You can add chicken, mushrooms, and/or sun dried tomatoes.

Dill & Potato Salad

Ingredients

- 2/3 cup Mayonnaise
- 1/2 tsp. dill weed
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 4 cups quartered new potatoes, cooked
- 1/4 cup green onion slices

Directions

Place potatoes in a large pot and cover with water. Bring to a boil over high heat, then turn heat to medium-low, cover, and cook until tender but still firm, about 15 minutes. Drain, cool in an ice water bath until cold, about 5 minutes. Leaving skins on, cut into bite-size pieces, and place in a large mixing bowl.

Combine mayonnaise, dill weed, and green onions in a bowl and stir until blended. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Pour mayo mixture over potatoes and toss to coat evenly. Adjust seasoning if necessary. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours, or overnight.

Feta & Watermelon Salad

Ingredients

- 1 (5-pound) watermelon
- 1 Vidalia or other sweet onion
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- Salt and pepper
- 1/2 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint
- 4 ounces feta cheese, crumbled
- 6 whole mint sprigs

Directions

Cut the flesh from the melon and cut into bite size pieces, removing and discarding the seeds, and set aside. Peel and slice the onion into rings.

In a small bowl, combine the vinegar, salt, pepper, and whisk until salt is dissolved. Slowly whisk in the olive oil, a few drops at a time. Add in the chopped mint, taste, and adjust seasonings.

In a large bowl, combine the melon, onion, and feta. Pour the dressing over the melon mixture and toss gently until everything is coated and evenly mixed. Garnish with mint sprigs.

To serve, divide salad among individual plates and garnish with mint leaves.

instructor for years in White Rock Squadron and taught the boating course and instructor's course and endured himself to all his students as his background was teaching. He was also currently nominated as a forthcoming Director of the National organization that would have occurred in October but unfortunately unable to fulfill this honour. His favorite past time would be reading books and of best read on a beach in some wonderful holiday place such as Rio, Cancun, Cassis (France) or Palm Springs. He was always current on global politics and history and always had an opinion on all world leaders, situations and issues as he was so well read. Carlos fought a most courageous battle against cancer but finally has gone on to rest in peace from this brutal disease. Of course he was not ready to leave us but has now joined many of our good friends who have preceded us in life's journey sailing on to endless soft breezes and calm seas. We of course will meet again one day but in the meantime he will leave a void that cannot be filled except with beautiful memories.

Carlos's sisters in Santiago and Germany as well as myself and families bid this caring wonderful man Carlos a fond farewell and may he rest in peace. 🇧🇷
